

8. Student Health: Promote health awareness among parents/guardians by addressing the need for health programs and student health services which are linked to student learning.

Leading	Developing	Emerging	Lacking
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ The school has established a systematic process for reviewing and revising school improvement plans based on milestones established throughout the school year to sufficiently address health and safety issues for students. ■ The school develops a professional development plan in collaboration with community stakeholders, parents, and staff to provide staff and parent training on required health and safety issues (e.g. blood-borne pathogens), as well as behaviors or other events that indicate a health or safety concern. ■ School staff implements a systematic process to actively seek and establish partnerships with community agencies to identify and connect parents with resources, services, health screenings, evening or after-school activities, and resource service centers. ■ The school implements a written parent involvement plan developed in collaboration with community stakeholders, parents, and staff to provide parents with training on health and safety issues such as gang awareness, bullying, domestic violence, and internet safety. ■ The school implements a system for actively seeking parent and community feedback on policies and practices that may have an impact on the health and safety of students. ■ The school offers specific health services to students. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ The school utilizes stakeholder surveys and other data to development school improvement plans that sufficiently address health and safety issues for students outlined with measurable goals for improvement. ■ The school implements a professional development plan to provide staff and parent training on required health and safety issues (e.g. blood-borne pathogens), as well as others such as behaviors or other events that indicate a health or safety concern. ■ School staff utilizes multiple community partnerships to identify and connect parents with resources, services, health screenings, evening or after-school activities, and resource service centers. ■ The school implements a written parent involvement plan that provides parents with training on health and safety issues, such as gang awareness, bullying, domestic violence, and internet safety. ■ The school effectively informs parents and community stakeholders of district and school policies and practices that may have an impact on the health and safety of students. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ The school improvement plan addresses health and safety issues for students with measurable goals, but may not be based on current stakeholder feedback. ■ The school provides required professional development to staff and parents on health and safety issues on an annual basis. ■ School staff maintains a directory of community partnerships that is readily available for staff use. ■ The school implements a written parent involvement plan with limited strategies for addressing the health programs and student health services linked to student learning. ■ The school provides limited written communication to parents on school policies and practices that may impact the health and safety of students. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ The school improvement plan addresses minimal health and safety issues with few to no measurable goals. ■ School staff participates in professional development on health and safety issues on an incidental or voluntary basis. ■ School staff rarely updates or utilizes a directory of community partnerships. ■ The school has no written parent involvement plan with strategies addressing the health programs and student health services linked to student learning. ■ The school provides no formal process for communicating to parents on school policies and practices that may impact the health and safety of students.

Evidence: